County anxiously awaits '74 Fair

By GEORGE MALEK

A beautiful queen and two attendants, record livestock sales and a lot of rain were some of the most memorable aspects of the 1973 Fayette County Fair.

Some persons felt that Bob Braun's show was the highlight of fair week, to others a big win or substantial loss at the race track will be remembered longer.

A RIBBON won in Junior Fair competition can become treasure to be cherished for years to come, or a dented auto which outlasted its competition may furnish the basis of fond memories.

Children more likely remember the thrilling rides and amusements, and some teenagers or young adults may still be dating, or now be married to, someone met along the midway.

Each has his or her own reason for attending and remembering Fayette County's fairs. The only way to really summarize is to say there is something for everyone.

Once again the crowning of the Fair Queen will mark the beginning of a new fair adventure. Candidates Teresa Jordan, Lenora Slaven and Debra Frazier will await the decision of the judges, the Junior Fair exhibitors, Sunday afternoon.

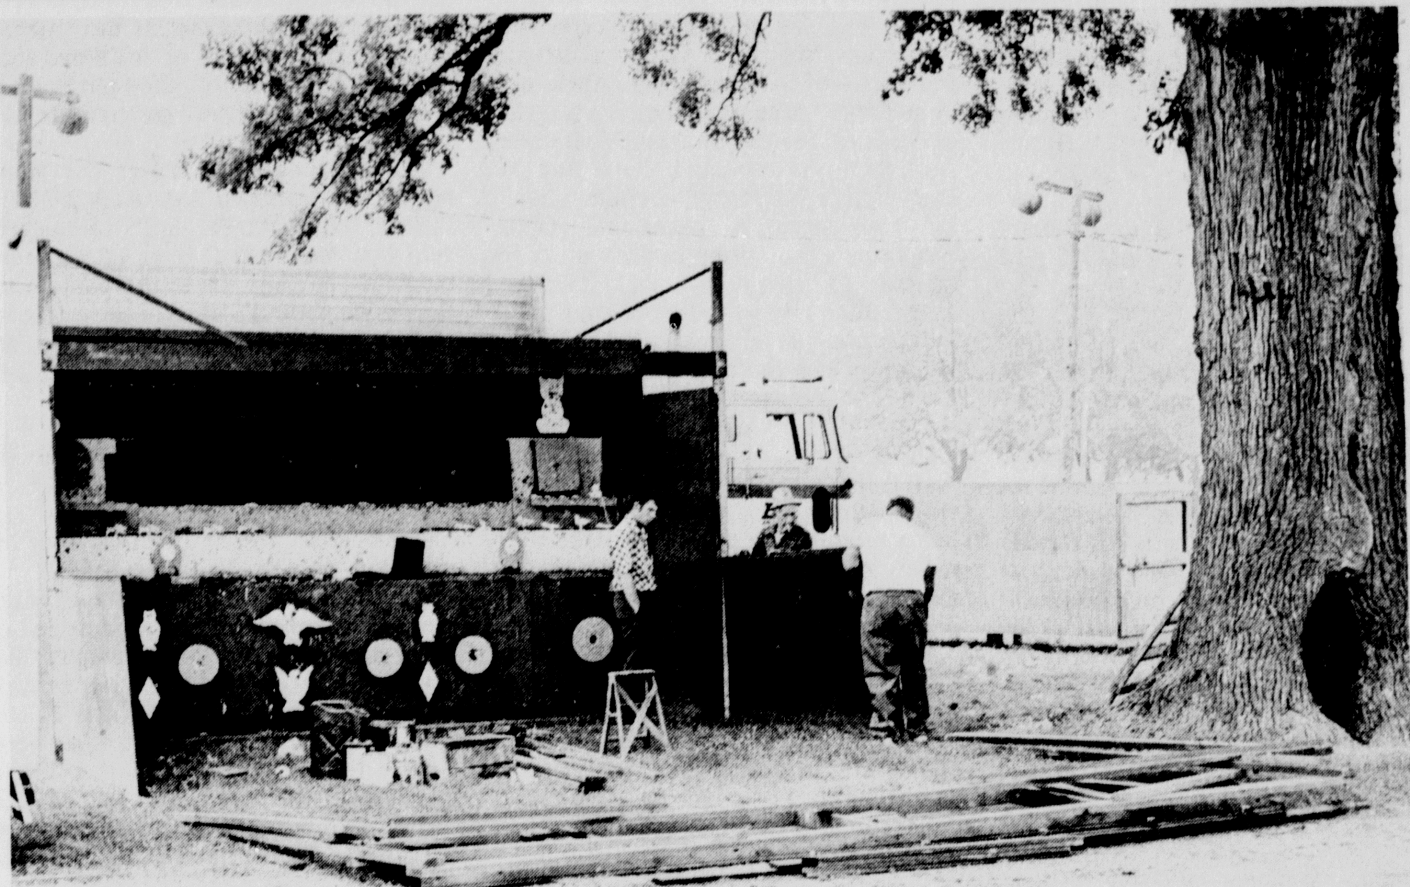

Ceremonies begin at 4 p.m. and less than an hour later one of the three will reign as the next queen, leaving two other fine young ladies with mixed emotions of a near miss. Two will undoubtedly be disappointed, but pleased that they were final candidates and happy for the winner.

Bob Braun and the cast of the popular 50-50 Club will present the grandstand show beginning at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. The entire cast is scheduled to appear. Cliff Lash and his orchestra will provide the music while Braun charms the ladies and Rob Reider and Randy Weidner capture the "love" of many of the misses. Marian Spellman, Bonnie Lou and Gwen Conley will be present to see that the gentlemen are not forsaken.

Livestock shows and 4-H activities begin Monday morning. The evening will initiate the harness horse racing schedule which has purses totaling more than $15,000 over three nights.

EARLY ARRIVALS — Carnival workers set up the shooting gallery in its customary spot along the midway on the Fayette County Fairground. Several of the midway amusement booths were in place Friday and others were arriving in preparation for Sunday's official Fayette County Fair opening. Festivities begin at 4 p.m. with the crowning of the Fair Queen.

Calls for Turk intervention growing

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Demands for Turkey's armed forces to intervene in Cyprus and prevent Greek annexation of the island increased today. Opposition politicians, business and labor leaders and newspapers all urged decisive action to repel any threat to the freedom of the 115,000 Turkish Cypriots on the island 44 miles off Turkey's southern coast.

Former Premier Suleiman Demirel, head of the leading opposition party, said Turkey would not concede even a piece of rock to Greece.

"The Turkish nation is completely united on this vital national cause," he declared.

Ferruh Bozbeyli, chairman of another conservative party, wrote Premier Bulent Ecevit that the government should start military operations immediately.

"Never before has Turkey had such an unquestionable right to intervene," he asserted.

The chambers of commerce and industry announced that "the Turkish private sector with all its resources" was at the disposal of the armed forces.

The biggest labor federation offered to halt all strikes to show support of government policy on Cyprus.

Ecevit was expected back today from London, where he conferred with Prime Minister Harold Wilson, Foreign Secretary James Callaghan and United States Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco. Sisco, rushed to Europe by President Nixon to try to avert war between Greece and Turkey, flew to Athens this morning and was to come on to Ankara.

Ecevit said in London he was hopeful of a peaceful solution. And so far he has stopped short of saying Turkey would use its superior military forces against its neighbor and ally in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Turkey's armed forces outnumber Greece's 450,000 to 160,000, and the Turks have twice as many tanks. But the Greeks would have the advantage of superior forces on Cyprus, where Athens can count on the 11,000-man national guard and its 650 Greek officers who overthrew President Makarios, plus a 1,000-man Greek army detachment. Turkey has only a matching 1,000-man force.

The Turkish minority lives in enclaves separate from the Greek Cypriots, with United Nations forces patrolling a "green belt" between them. So far the coup has had no effect on the Turkish Cypriots, and they have moved about normally.

Coffee Break . .

DUE TO the work of painting the exterior of the Fayette County Museum, and interior work also under way, the museum will be closed until the project is completed.

The exterior paint job is being handled gratis by a group of teen-agers under the direction of the Rev. Allen Puffenberger, associate pastor of the Grace United Methodist Church. The young workers are being supervised by adults and the historic building will soon take on a new look. Work will be suspended during fair week, it has been announced.

Meanwhile, work of preparing the mounting for the German war cannon, which will be placed on the museum lawn immediately west of the flag pole and pointed toward Court Street, is also under way. The project is being supervised by Charles Wagner, Fayette County engineer. Wagner is also assisting in scaffolding for painting of the museum tower.

U.N. to hear Makarios plea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The new government of Cyprus was rushing a representative to United Nations headquarters today to take part in the Security Council debate on Cyprus. But the council went ahead with plans to hear deposed President Makarios this afternoon as scheduled.

Council President Javier Perez de Cuellar of Peru said Makarios would speak as the "president of Cyprus." And it was apparent that the Soviet Union and most of the other 14 members of the council were not going to accord legitimacy to anyone from the Greek-led forces that deposed Makarios.

However, Perez said the new government's man might be heard under a council rule allowing the appearance of "persons whom it considers competent... to supply it with information." He called a morning council session to discuss the Nicosia request.

Makarios, who escaped from Cyprus on Tuesday as the island was taken over by its 11,000-man national guard and the 650 guard officers from the Greek army, arrived in New York from London on Thursday. He told newsmen he wants the council to condemn the takeover and demand that the ruling military junta in Athens withdraw the guard's Greek officers. The archbishop apparently believed the rebellion then would collapse.

A draft resolution circulating among council members demanded withdrawal of "foreign military personnel

now serving in the national guard" of Cyprus. The Greek government tried to head this off with a promise to the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Brussels that it would start "replacing" the officers with a new group of Greeks in a few days. But observers assumed that this would make no change in the situation.

Diplomats said the Soviet Union was insisting on condemning Greece, while the United States was opposed to naming its NATO ally on whose territory it has bases it considers vital. The sources said Britain also wanted any council resolution to recognize Makarios as the legitimate president of Cyprus.

In Washington, State Department officials said they believed Makarios' chances of regaining power in Cyprus were extremely remote. But they said the Nixon administration was withholding recognition of the new regime in the face of the widespread condemnation of it in the international community.

A high-ranking American official said the principal U.S. objective is to prevent war between Greece and Turkey.

Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco was in London for talks concerning Cyprus and was flying to Athens and Ankara today.

Annual state budgets are pushed for Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Legislative action on appropriations bill next Tuesday—for the second time in 13 months—is reviving the question of whether the state should shift to one-year budgets.

The Senate and House are slated to act on a measure calling for $124 million worth of new spending in the next 11 months. It would be in addition to the $9.9 billion, two-year spending document enacted by the legislature in June 1973. It was supposed to run the state until July 1, 1975.

Although the pending bill ostensibly grew out of expected profits from the lottery that starts next month, in the amount of $43.5 million, and an $80.5 million surplus—the question remains: What would the state have done otherwise about a near crisis in many of Ohio's school districts and strike-enforced demands for a state employee pay raise?

Those two items account for more than half of the money in the supplemental bill—$45 million for school districts and $22 million for the second state employee pay raise in 11 months.

Even in the wake of the recent problems, the Gilligan Administration still is reluctant to switch to annual budgets because it feels the problems they would create would outweigh any of the advantages that might be gained.

John B. Olsen, director of the Office of Budget & Management, repeated Thursday he believes it still is better to budget the state for two years, and then make adjustments of any surpluses or deficits at the end of each biennium.

Earlier he elaborated a little more on that view before a Senate committee that considered and then scrapped an annual budget bill for the third legislative session in a row.

Olsen, as well as some of the members of the Senate Finance Committee, said he had "serious reservations" about trying to run the state on annual budgets which could evolve into a situation of dealing with fiscal problems "almost month to month."

He said such a change also would require hiring additional personnel who would be needed to implement it and keep it going.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, who sponsored the annual budgets bill for the second time this session, disagreed with Olsen and cited what he called "valid reasons" why Ohio should join the 30 other states and four non-state U.S. jurisdictions that have annual budgets.

Mottl said Ohio could take advantage of federal funds that are available on a year-to-year basis without waiting two years, benefit from more frequent and accurate estimates of revenues and expenditures, enhance legislative control over spending since the legislature now

Bell Telephone walkout looms

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio Bell Telephone Co. spokesman says a strike by more than 19,000 hourly workers in the state would affect virtually every aspect of the company's service.

But the spokesman, Vic Williamson, was confident that a settlement will be reached in national contract negotiations in Washington, D.C.

"I really don't have a feeling that a strike will come," Williamson said Thursday. "I think the rank-and-file people feel how we feel — that a strike should be avoided at all costs."

The executive board of the Communications Workers of America in Washington authorized a nationwide strike vote Thursday after rejecting a three-year contract offer by Bell Systems, Inc.

Officials said the mail balloting by 500,000 CWA members was expected to take two weeks, during which time talks will continue.

The CWA represents 19,097 employees at Ohio Bell, 500 at Bell Laboratories and an undetermined number at Western Electric facilities around the state.

The Ohio CWA headquarters said locals in the state were awaiting receipt of their packages of voting regulations and ballots from the national office.

Williamson said only "certain local items" are being negotiated in Ohio and "the wage package, including fringe benefits, is being handled in the national talks."

The package rejected by CWA negotiators reportedly would have boosted wages and fringe benefits by about 30 per cent. Current salaries range from $108 to $166.50 a week for operators and from $148 to $260 a week for skilled craftsmen.

One stumbling block reportedly is the union's demand for elimination of certain clauses that provide exceptions to a requirement that workers either join the union or pay a sum equivalent to union dues.

Meanwhile, about 200 striking employees of the Western Reserve Telephone Co. in Hudson were to vote today on a tentative contract agreement providing a 23 per cent wage increase over the next 26 months.

Members of the Independent Telephone Workers struck the company June 16 after the contract expired and negotiations became deadlocked. Management personnel have continued service to the company's 30,000 Summit County subscribers.

President's orders against leaks bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nothing in more than 2,000 pages of domestic surveillance evidence gathered by the House Judiciary Committee shows clearly that President Nixon approved specific illegal acts by his assistants.

But the record shows that the President set no limit on what his aides should do to halt newspaper stories about sensitive U.S. diplomatic plans.

Nixon reserved some of his worst language for describing career government bureaucrats who talked freely with reporters about U.S. foreign policy.

He distrusted them so much that he seriously considered ordering lie detector tests for more than 1,000 State Department, Pentagon and Central Intelligence Agency employees, not because he thought they were all responsible for news leaks, but, in the President's words, so he could "immediately scare the bastards."

"Listen, I don't know anything about polygraphs and I don't know how accurate they are but I know they'll scare hell out of people," Nixon said, according to a presidential transcript released for the first time on Thursday.

Nixon feared the leaks would jeopardize the strategic arms limitation talks. He thought Daniel Ellsberg likely had more than the Pentagon papers Vietnam War study to make public.

He did not believe that making his foreign policy public before it was fully carried out was necessary to the democracy.

Former White House special Counsel Charles W. Colson quoted Nixon as saying in late June 1971: "I don't give a damn how it is done, do whatever has to be done to stop these leaks and prevent further unauthorized disclosures; I don't want to be told why it can't be done."

As a result, wiretaps were placed on the telephones of newsmen and National Security Council staff members. The late FBI director, J. Edgar Hoover, not known for open and friendly relations with reporters, objected and wouldn't even allow the files about the tapes against suspected news leakers to be kept in FBI files.

The wiretap files eventually ended up in the White House.

Later, the special White House investigative unit called the plumbers was formed. Even as the plumbers were planning the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Nixon was complaining to aide John D. Ehrlichman that their efforts were "not vigorous enough."

Economic decline worst since WWII

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living rose one per cent in June as sharply higher prices for a wide range of consumer goods and services kept inflation soaring, the government reported today.

The Labor Department's figures underscored the bleak economic news Thursday from the Commerce Department which reported the economy underwent one of its most severe declines since World War II in the first half of the year.

The nation's output of goods and services—the Gross National Product—dropped between April and June for the second successive quarter of declines, the Commerce Department said. Some economists believe that two consecutive quarterly declines should be considered a recession. Other economists feel other factors must be considered.

The June rise in the consumer price index, announced today, was led by higher prices for new and used cars, medical care, mortgage interest costs, household durables and fresh fruits.

Food prices rose a seasonally adjusted three tenths of one per cent, a rate slightly more than usual for June but a much more moderate pace than in any other month this year with the exception of April when food prices fell four tenths of one per cent.

The June increase in consumer prices works out to an annual rate of 12 per cent. For the three months ending in June the pace of inflation soared at an adjusted annual rate of 10.9 per cent, according to the government figures.

Consumer prices last month rose to a level 11.1 per cent higher than a year ago, with the government's index at 147.1. This meant it cost $147.10 to purchase a variety of consumer goods and services that cost $100 in 1967.

Nonfood items rose an adjusted 1.3 per cent, the sixth consecutive month of rapid rise. This was a reflection of sharply higher prices at wholesale which have continued to soar since price controls were dropped April 30.

Also up sharply last month were service costs which rose one per cent, the same as in May.

As has been the case for most of the past year, the spurt of inflation took another bite out of the purchasing power of the average production worker.

Real spendable earnings, or take-home pay adjusted for taxes and inflation, fell by three tenths of one per cent last month to a level 4.5 per cent below a year ago. Over the past year, the government has reported real spendable earnings dropped every month with the exception of May, September and July.

Leading the surge in nonfood prices was the rising cost of new automobiles which went up in June instead of declining as usual. Also up were prices for household goods, gasoline, fuel oil and clothing.

For the second quarter of the year, the consumer price index rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 10.9 per cent, compared with 14.2 per cent in the preceding quarter. The rise in the food index slowed from a 19.4 per cent annual rate in the first quarter to 3.1 per cent in the April-June period, the smallest quarterly increase in two years, the government said.

meets every year, "and certainly cut down on any need for having to make supplemental appropriations."

Karl Stewart, executive secretary of the 33,000-member Ohio Civil Service Employees Association—the biggest employe organization that demanded the most recent pay raise but didn't strike—said his group was forced to go back to the legislature this year.

He explained that after seeking an increase of 56 cents an hour in 1973, and getting an increase of 25 cents or 5 per cent, whichever was higher, in August of last year, state employes faced a biennium with an increase that failed to meet even increased costs of living during the period.

The OCSEA official called the 10-to-30-cent increase provided in the pending bill "inadequate" and said his organization "already is drafting a bill" to present to the next legislature in January. His group had asked 31 cents, "just enough to make up for what we didn't get last year," he said.

Dr. Paul Spayde, deputy superintendent of public instruction, blamed inflation of about 10 per cent and failure of tax levies in the May primary for the financial difficulties in school systems this year.

In 1973, the legislature set state support for schools at about $304 per pupil, an increase of only 3 per cent over the 1971-1973 biennium. The new $45 million will boost that to about $324 per pupil, an increase of another 6 per cent.

Spayde said if there had not been a supplemental appropriation, school districts throughout the state would have to go back in November and ask voters to approve additional levies.

He said as many as half of the state's approximately 600 school districts might have had to submit new ballot proposals.

propose at least three broad articles of impeachment charging President Nixon with obstruction of justice, abuse of his constitutional powers and contempt of Congress.

A Republican member of the committee predicted on Thursday that both the committee and the House will approve at least one article, leading to a Senate trial to determine whether Nixon should be removed from office.

Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., told newsmen that three or four committee Republicans are likely to vote for impeachment and that it could be much higher. He said only five of 17 Republican members could be counted as definitely opposed to impeachment at this time.

At a meeting called by the House Republican leadership to determine where the committee Republicans stand, McClory was one of five members who either said they were undecided or declined to give their views.

The others were Reps. Caldwell Butler of Virginia, William S. Cohen of Maine, Hamilton Fish of New York and Tom Railsback of Illinois. Some others indicated their position will be determined by the articles of impeachment that are proposed.

Seek identity of dead body

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Butler County Police are still searching missing persons files, attempting to identify the body of a young woman found Thursday in a sludge pit at a paper plant five miles south of Hamilton.

Butler County Coroner Garret Boone, said the woman had been dead about a week and was the victim of "a probable homicide."

The only identifying mark found on the body was a tattoo on the left side of her abdomen reading "Property of Tom."

Police said workers at the paper plant saw the body after it surfaced in the 12-foot-deep pit.

The coroner said the woman was about 20.

A cold front approaching Ohio will likely bring some cooler temperatures to the state today after a night in which there were a few thundershowers, mostly in the southwestern sections. Temperatures in the early morning ranged in the upper 60s and 70s.

Winds are to begin shifting to west and northwest Friday morning across the northern part of the state, and in southern Ohio this afternoon. Highs today will be in the upper 70s north, and in the upper 80s south.

Thundershowers will likely develop today along and south of the frontal system, providing some relief. Cooler and less humid air will spread into the state tonight and Saturday.

Lows tonight will be in the 50s north and low 60s south. Highs Saturday will be mostly in the 70s, except low 80s in the extreme southern part of the state.

Fair Sunday through Tuesday. Highs Sunday in the upper 70s and low 80s, warming to the upper 80s and low 90s by Tuesday. Lows from the mid 50s to low 60s Sunday and in the 60s Tuesday.

pull, is slated for Thursday night. This is an open event with the competition broken down into weight classes.

The tractor competition has become a major drawing card at other fairs and local officials hope that the event will become one of the major attractions of the local festivities.

Demolition derbies are scheduled Friday and Saturday evening. In some areas, they have become as capable as football of venting the spectator's urge for violence.

Although a full field of entries in the demolition competition is expected, there have been fewer this year than last. Robert Cannon, chairman of the derby committee, explained that the price of tattered autos is much higher than a year ago, discouraging some entrants, but not the spectators.

The midway will be operated by the Gooding Amusement Co., which has provided a fine assortment of rides in the past. Local groups and organizations have a wide variety of booths and concessions.

Eddie Kirk, president of the Fair Board, said the board hopes to avoid some of the difficulty of last year by improving the drainage at the Fairgrounds. Inevitably, this will be an asset, for who would recognize the Fayette County Fair without its annual monsoon. Another improvement has been the new fence surrounding the grounds.

Much work by many people has been done to see that this year's fair follows the traditions set in the past, giving the Fayette County Fair 1974 something for everyone and making it one that can be remembered by all.

Walkouts continue

By The Associated Press
More than 740,000 Bell Telephone System workers have started to vote on whether to strike. Meanwhile, talks continue in the National Airlines strike, copper walkout negotiations are suspended temporarily and 20,000 workers remain off the job at several General Motors plants.

Leaders of the Communications Workers Union, the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and a group of independent unions asked their members on Thursday to vote on whether they want to strike. The balloting is expected to be completed by mail in about two weeks.

Talks have been recessed temporarily in the copper strike in which 30,000 workers have left their jobs. The negotiations are between the unions and three companies, American Smelting and Refining Co., Phelps Dodge Co. and Magma Corp.

Approximately 20,000 General Motors workers were on strike or were laid off because of the walkouts at plants in Lordstown, Ohio, and St. Louis. United Auto Workers Union members also are threatening to strike GM's Anderson, Ind., and Danville, Ill., plants.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, giving up on a modest early rally attempt.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 1.80 at 787.39, although advancing issues held on to a narrow lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was slow.

Brokers said the market atmosphere was chilled a bit by the government's report that consumer prices climbed at a 12 per cent annual rate in June, even though bad news on inflation had been expected for the month.

Southern Co. was the most active NYSE issue, up 1/2 at 12. A 199,900-share block of the issue changed hands at 12 1/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index edged up .14 to 79.54.

Giant Yellowknife, the Amex volume leader, added a point to 17 3/8.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .06 to 43.76.

Hold suspect in slaying of policeman

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati Police announced early today that they have arrested one suspect and are searching for three others in connection with the fatal shooting of Patrolman David Cole.

Lt. Col. John McLaughlin, chief of detectives, said that Roland Reaves, 23, of the city's Mt. Auburn section, was arrested Thursday and would be charged today with aggravated murder.

A warrant has been issued for Ricardo Woods, 23, on charges of aggravated murder and unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

McLaughlin said the two allegedly were the ones who shot Cole as he responded to a burglary early Wednesday.

Police declined to name the other two men being sought, but said they were wanted in connection with the burglary.

Police said they believed Woods was heading south with a woman companion.

Reaves was one of seven suspects questioned by police Thursday, police said.

Police said Reaves and Woods lived together in a house about a half mile from the place Cole was killed.

Cole was apparently shot in an exchange of gunfire with the burglars after attempting to stop them, police said.

Hemlock timber has many unfavorable commercial qualities but its cheapness makes it useful as coarse lumber and rough dimension stock.

Opinion And Comment

Cult of secrecy

For years there have been recurrent complaints about the unaccountability of the Central Intelligence Agency. It is known that the CIA and similar agencies spend vast sums on operations which in the main are kept secret not only from the public but from the Congress which appropriates the money.

The new book, "CIA and the Cult of Intelligence," will add fuel to the fires of complaint. In it a former CIA man, Victor Marchetti, and John D.

Marks, formerly of the State Department, write that this cult "encourages professional amorality - the belief that righteous goals can be achieved through the use of unprincipled and normally unacceptable means." They add that "with the cooperation of an acquiescent, ill-informed Congress, and the encouragement and assistance of a series of presidents, the cult has built a wall of laws and executive orders around the CIA and itself, a wall that has blocked effective public scrutiny."

The authors elaborate on generally similar but less explicit assessments made in the past. They describe a frightening situation - one made more so by the CIA's determined but in the end largely unsuccessful effort to emasculate the book. Its publication should intensify the demand for that "effective public scrutiny" which is now so notably lacking.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Volunteer Army looking up

When President Richard Nixon made his still unappreciated gift to Young America by ending the draft, the cynics came out of the woodwork in full force. A voluntary army, they said, would never do. It would lure only the dregs; it would use up money that might better be spent on advance weapons; it wouldn't represent a democratic cross-section of the nation; it would be 80 per cent black, etcetera, etcetera.

For a couple of months, when enlistments dropped by 30 per cent, it looked as though the cynics were going to be right. But on the first anniversary of the draft's demise, the voluntary army is already a resounding success. On July 1, Secretary of the Army Howard Callaway made the point statistically: the army ended the fiscal year in excess of its authorized strength of 781,600. There had been enlistments of some 200,000 volunteers, and a high re-enlistment of some 58,000 men and women.

No One Boasts of Patriotism

An apparent paradox is involved here. All the polls tell us that patriotism is at a low ebb, particularly among the young. I myself doubt the ability of a pollster to get a true answer to questions about being motivated by patriotism—people feel sheepish about boasting of their love of country just as they feel sheepish about admitting their own virtue. They remember old Sam Johnson's dictum about patriotism being the last refuge of scoundrels.

LEAVING THE matter of truthful response to questions about patriotism aside, however, the U.S. Army Recruiting Command, which is under the direction of the astute Major General William B. Fulton, has discovered that an inversion of the R.O.T.C. principle is just the thing to build up a voluntary army. Under R.O.T.C., a college student devotes most of his time to ordinary civilian subjects, with military training coming after math and chemistry and language requirements have been satisfied. The army now works it the other way round. In running the Ninth Infantry Division in the Pacific Northwest, General Fulton had conducted something called "Old Reliable University" — he had worked with local colleges, vocational schools and high schools to enable his "old reliable" to get diplomas they had missed in civilian life. The principle, elaborated as the Educational Service Plan, is now luring high school graduates into the voluntary army; almost 70 per cent of the June 1974 enlistments were high school graduates or the equivalent. A recruit is now able to spend some 20 per cent of his training time on the ordinary civilian subjects he might have elected if he had gone to college. He can enroll in a local community college or a vocational school and, in three years of military service, get up to two years of credit toward an ordinary bachelor's degree. This brings college training within the reach of hundreds who could not afford it otherwise. It does not lead to any skimping in military preparedness; the improvement in morale and motivation means that the 80 per cent of time spent on military training is more intensively utilized.

The army as education appeals in other ways. As General Fulton says, of the 480 skills learned in the army, only some 30 or 40 are not transferable to civilian life. For example, any man who has driven a tank can drive a Caterpillar tractor.

The opportunity for continuing an education has brought highly-motivated people into the army. And the motivation extends to the blacks and other minorities, who now constitute some 21 per cent of the active army, not an overbearing "ethnic" burden.

The skeptics are still at it, however—they show it when they ask such questions (quoting from the Washington Post) as "How well an army of well-paid enlistees recruited in 'peacetime' perform in combat?" There can be no definitive answer to such a question short of war, but when Nixon called for his Middle East alert last Fall, a telephoned notification at 12:15 a.m. brought an eager 100 per cent response of "Yes Sir, where are we going?"

A voluntary army necessarily costs more than a drafted army. Some $43 billion, or more than half the Pentagon budget, goes for pay. But actually there was no choice when Nixon ended the draft. The young had revolted against compulsory enlistment by wrecking our campuses, a cost which itself could not be borne indefinitely. A voluntary army does not make semantic mock of the Thirteenth Amendment, which prohibits "involuntary servitude." The young, who make a fetish of integrity, appreciated that—and they are making the voluntary army their own.

Find bodies in car trunk at Circleville

CIRCLEVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Agents of the state Bureau of Criminal Investigation are assisting the Pickaway County sheriff's office in probing the slaying of two unidentified men in apparent gangland style.

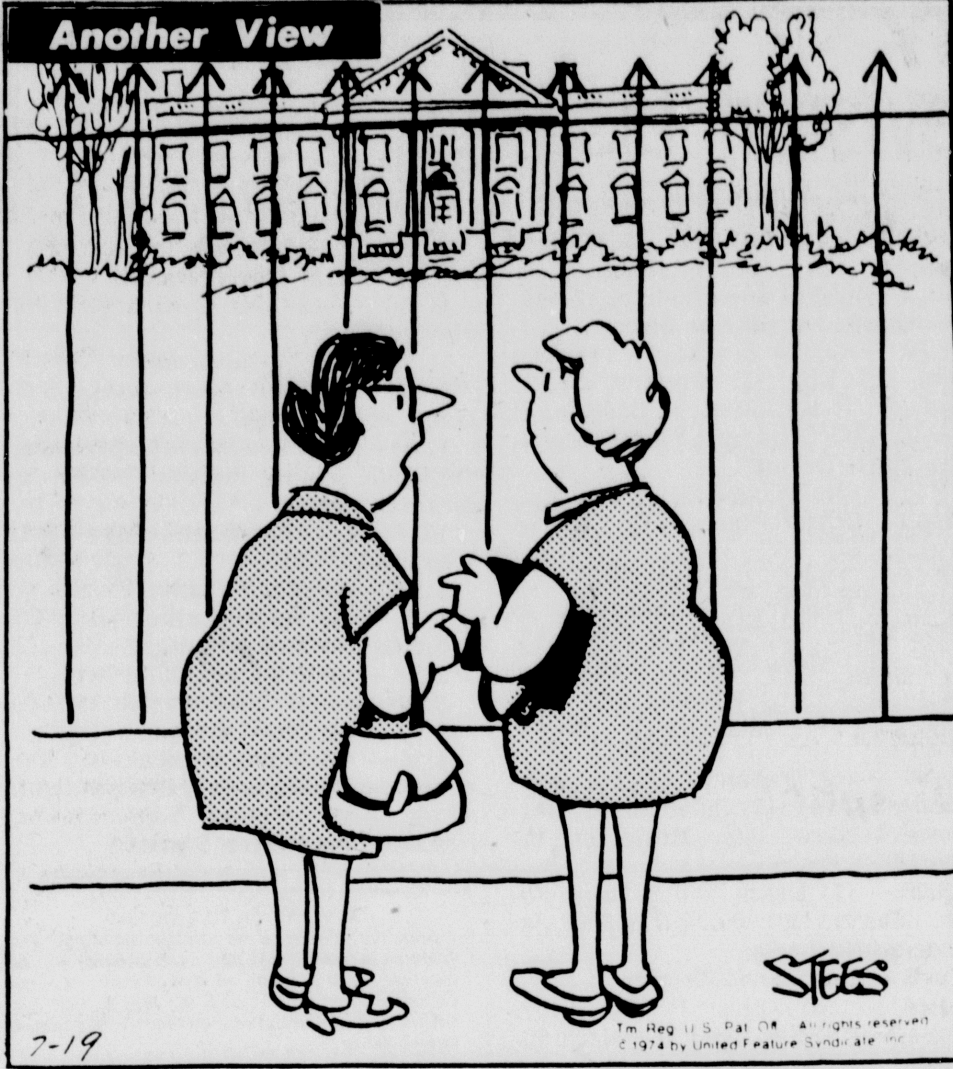

The decomposed bodies were found Thursday stuffed in the trunk of a car parked near the Brooks Yates School on Ohio 104 southwest of Circleville. Authorities said the victims' mouths had been taped shut and plastic bags were wrapped around their heads.

The Hamilton County coroner's office was conducting autopsies to determine the cause of death, although it appeared the men had been strangled.

The coroner's office also was assisting efforts to identify the men, hoping dental records would help.

Deputies said the car's license plates had been issued to a Dayton resident and they were attempting to locate the owner.

The car apparently was abandoned late Sunday or early Monday, the sheriff's office said. Deputies investigated the car after receiving reports of an odor coming from the trunk.

Ohio Perspective

Solons are required to check own rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's legislature, like any other organization that has a set of rules, has to go thumbing through them from time to time to see how to operate.

A prime example was when members of a joint conference committee studying state appropriations realized that even if they reached agreement, there might be no one around to act on it.

It was a complicated situation that resulted from an adjournment resolution the lawmakers passed before they went into summer recess. It limited sessions during the recess to two days—July 9 and Sept. 10.

The idea had been that if the committee agreed on a bill, leaders could announce a full session on either of those dates. But on July 8, Gov. John J. Gilligan announced an $80.5 million budget surplus—ruling out any chance of an agreement or a floor session on July 9.

It was pointed out that Sept. 10 wouldn't do either, since school districts figuring to benefit from additional funds have to approve operating budgets by then.

Leaders were on the verge of calling back the full membership, or at least a quorum of the Senate and House, to amend the resolution.

Speaker Pro Tem Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, proposed having the resolution amended by skeleton sessions of the two chambers. "We approve other resolutions this way, why can't we act on this one, too?", he asked, and it was done.

Some legislators said they questioned the procedure, and wondered if it could stand the test of a challenge. They said the "other resolutions" alluded to were the congratulatory type, the kind "no one ever objects to."

Gubernatorial Candidate James A. Rhodes is putting some extra effort into a grassroots fund raising drive in hopes it will fly. Jerrie Mock, Columbus' world-girdling aviatrix, is secretary and treasurer of the drive.

Rhodes, Republican former governor, prepared 200,000 $10 pledge cards and is mailing them to 20,000 Ohioans. The aim is to have each recipient collect ten $10 pledges for his campaign.

Captive gorilla on soft diet

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Colo, the first gorilla born in captivity, will probably be kept on a special soft diet for the rest of her life according to Columbus Zoo Director James Savoy.

The 18-year-old gorilla is suffering from a bowel obstruction Savoy said. He noted that although her condition is improving, she has lost some weight.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Was Diogenes a male chauvinist pig?

DEAR ABBY: A Southern gentleman fell for a real estate woman and courted her in style. He took her to New York (separate rooms) and showed her a wonderful time. He even took her to a jewelry store, hoping she'd select some rings, but she selected a diamond wristwatch instead. All this time he didn't lay a hand on her because he wanted her to know that he was a true Southern gentleman with honorable intentions.

After the trip, the lady returned the diamond watch, saying she couldn't marry him because the "chemistry" wasn't right.

Abby that lady is out of her tree! Please send me the gentleman's address. I'm a female chemist who can MAKE the chemistry right. Sing me...

"MADAME CURIE IN A HURRY"
DEAR MADAME: The real estate lady may be out of her tree in YOUR book, but she has a fan in Paradise Valley, Ariz. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for that woman who returned the diamond wristwatch, telling the gentleman she couldn't marry him because the chemistry wasn't right. Assuming Diogenes isn't a male chauvinist pig, and therefore will settle for an honest woman—he can quit looking.

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading about the 80-year-old man who looks 60 and dances around like Fred Astaire whenever there is music.

I knew you would say, "Let him have his fun and be glad he has his health." You almost always let the older generation do what they want. If that letter had been from a mother complaining about her teen-age daughter, you would have said, "Tell her if she can't act like a lady, she should stay home."

My father is 60 and looks like he is 80, but he conducts himself in a manner fitting the occasion.

If that woman lets her father go to the wedding and act like a donkey that will make two of them there.

DEAR R.L.L.: If you see two "donkeys" here, I see three!

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, July 19, the 200th day of 1974. There are 165 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1870, the Franco-Prussian War began.

On this date — In 1553, the daughter of England's King Henry VIII, Mary, was proclaimed Queen after Lady Jane Grey had been deposed.

In 1821, the English King, George IV was crowned.

In 1941, the "V for Victory" campaign in World War II was launched with a broadcast by Britain's Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

In 1943, also during the Second World War, Rome was bombed for the first time.

In 1965, France charged that a U.S. photo reconnaissance plane had taken pictures of French nuclear-production facilities.

Ten years ago: At a mass meeting in Saigon, South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Khanh called for attacks against North Vietnam.

One year ago: The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks agreed to admit blacks for the first time in the 105-year history of the lodge.

Today's birthdays: Senator George McGovern of South Dakota is 52. Actor Pat Hingle is 50.

Thought for today: People ask you for criticism, but they only want praise — W. Somerset Maugham, British novelist, 1874-1965.

Inmate escapes honor dormitory

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An inmate of the honor dormitory at the old Ohio Penitentiary escaped Thursday in a dump truck he later wrecked, corrections officials said.

Police said that Charles Eikleberry, the escapee, left the scene of the accident before police arrived.

Eikleberry, 46, of Adams County, was serving a life sentence for a 1953 first-degree murder conviction. The dump truck he used to escape is one he usually drives to haul trash and cinders at the prison, officials there said.

Chronology of coup on Cyprus disclosed

By FRANK N. HAWKINS Jr.
Associated Press Writer
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The coup that ousted Archbishop Makarios from the presidency of Cyprus began around 8 a.m. Monday, July 15.

Units of the National Guard, led by their officers from the Greek Army, moved on police stations in Nicosia, capital of the island country, and Famagusta, Kyrenia, Larnaca and Limassol. They were backed by 40 tanks as well as mortars and light artillery.

In Nicosia, the troops also fanned out to communications offices, the presidential palace, Makarios' private residence, the airport and Kykko Monastery, the archbishop's religious headquarters.

The radio station, main police headquarters, main post office and airport fell almost immediately.

There was heavy resistance, however, at the palace, the archbishop's residence and the monastery, all defended by the tactical police reserve, the lightly armed palace guard Makarios had raised months ago as a counter force to the National Guard and its Greek Army officers.

The coup came 10 days after Makarios publicly accused the ruling military junta in Greece of plotting to overthrow or assassinate him. At a news conference July 5 he charged that the 650 Greek army officers commanding the 10,000 members of the National Guard were the junta's agents against him. He demanded their removal from Cyprus; the Greek government never replied.

The next week Makarios began arresting members of Eoka-B, the outlawed guerrilla group seeking enosis, or union with Greece.

The Cypriots and thousands of foreign vacationers who heard the first shooting only realized something was wrong when phones went dead and Radio Cyprus began playing martial music.

Just before 9 a.m., tanks rolled toward the presidential palace.

At 9:10 a terse radio announcement said the National Guard had assumed power. The martial music resumed.

Makarios was in the palace when the National Guard forces roared by firing tank cannon at almost point-blank range. Fighting was fierce. Witnesses later said the grounds of the palace were "strewn with bodies."

At 9:20, another brief radio announcement said "Makarios is dead." There was no elaboration.

Fighting continued at the palace, the archbishop's residence downtown and the monastery. Fire and huge columns of smoke rose from the palace.

In Famagusta, on the island's eastern end, police loyal to the president toured the city with loudspeakers proclaiming "Makarios is alive! Long live Makarios!"

Fighting broke out at police stations in Limassol and Larnaca.

At 10:50 a.m. Radio Cyprus announced formation of a Government of National Salvation, aimed at restoring and preserving law and order and heading off civil war.

Makarios was accused of ignoring the will of the people. The announcement stressed the coup was strictly an internal matter among the Greek Cypriots; it said reconciliation talks would continue with the Turkish Cypriot minority who make up 17 percent of the island's population. A curfew was announced.

At 12:15 p.m., the radio announced the commander of the Tactical Police Force, Panalakis Pantazis, had surrendered along with his 1,200 men.

At 1:15 the radio announced in English that the coup was successful and repeated the claim that Makarios was dead. But it was clear resistance had not ended. The announcement included a statement that police loyal to Makarios had entered several embassies with radio transmitters and were broadcasting with them. The radio demanded that the embassies— which were not named—expel them.

In Nicosia, a stray bullet hit the 6-year-old daughter of an American diplomat in the face and then hit the shoulder of a woman holding her. They were the only American casualties reported.

At 3:15 p.m. the radio announced that Nikos Sampson, 38, a newspaper publisher and member of the pre-independence Eoka underground, was the new president.

At the Nicosia city prison, the National Guard released more than 100 Eoka-B prisoners. Open trucks took them through the city to pick up weapons and join the fight.

Late in the afternoon, police commander Pantazis broadcast an emotion-choked appeal to all members of his force to surrender to avoid further bloodshed.

The radio announced that Sampson had named a five-man cabinet.

In Kyrenia, on the northern coast, Greek naval cadets, in the local castle overlooking the town's small police station, kept the police pinned down with their machine guns and rifles. Some later stormed the station, and the police surrendered.

In the early evening, a radio station in one of the Turkish sectors reported Makarios was alive and had made contact with members of the United Nations peacekeeping force that mans the lines between the Greek and Turkish sectors.

Late Monday night, and again on Tuesday morning, Makarios broadcast from the government radio network's relay station in Paphos, his birthplace in the southwest corner of the island controlled by forces loyal to him.

He appealed for the Greek Cypriots to rally around him. He had slipped out of a back exit of the palace during the fighting and made his way over the Trodos mountains to Paphos.

Makarios broadcast another appeal for support at noon, this one in English, just before shells from a National Guard gunboat took the Paphos station off the air.

Makarios, meanwhile, was in touch with the British government, and as an armored column led by a Greek army colonel rolled toward Paphos, the British sent a helicopter to take him to the British air base at Akrotiri.

By midday, Kyrenia, Famagusta, Larnaca and Nicosia were firmly under the control of the National Guard.

At nightfall, after scattered late afternoon firing, Nicosia was quiet. A British air force plane flew Makarios to Malta.

Wednesday morning, July 17, the British flew the archbishop to London, and in Nicosia the curfew was lifted from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. Traffic jammed the city as residents spilled out to buy needed goods and see what had happened to the city.

It was badly scarred. Tank treads had marked many of the streets. The presidential palace was a burned-out ruin. The archbishop's residence was badly pocked with shell holes. So was the Kykko monastery.

There was no official or authoritative unofficial estimate of the number of dead and wounded. Guesses ranged up to more than 600.

Heavily armed young troops manned roadblocks and checkpoints throughout the city, obviously intoxicated by their new power.

During the break in the curfew, a number of persons went to police stations, now controlled by the National Guard, to turn in their arms and ammunition in response to a broadcast order from the new government.

By nightfall Wednesday, Nicosia and the other cities of the island were calm. Guerrillas of the Eoka-B underground roamed the capital, above ground at last, with machine guns sticking out of the open windows of their cars.

Illinois explosion injures 78 persons

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — An explosion and fire engulfed a two-square-block area of a massive railroad yard today. Hospital officials said 78 persons were injured and a dozen were hospitalized.

A dispatcher for the Norfolk and Western Railroad said the explosion tore through a building used for overnight sleeping by rail crews.

Three hours after the initial explosion, the fire was still burning.

A spokesman at the Decatur Memorial Hospital said that 25 injured persons were brought there and two were admitted. At St. Mary's Hospital, a spokesman said 53 persons were treated and 10-12 admitted.

Fire fighters were evacuating homes in a two-block radius of the yards, a sprawling complex east of Decatur, and said more explosions were possible.

Cause of the explosion was not known.

Most of the injuries occurred as residential windows shattered with the 5:03 a.m. blast, officials said. Glass damage was prevalent over a wide area, police said.

Authorities said a boxcar containing dynamite was pulled clear of the fire after an alert yardmaster notified fire fighters of its presence.

All available fire-fighting equipment in Decatur was on the scene, officials said.

A Norfolk and Western dispatcher said as many as 24 railroad employees were believed injured by fire and flying debris. He said the explosion occurred near a building used by crews for overnight sleeping.

He said the explosion apparently originated in a chemical tank car, but did not know its contents. Switch engines were at work in the area when the explosion was touched off, he said.

Other cars containing volatile materials still were in the area, the spokesman said.

Fire officials said and trucks and crews from 11 outlying fire districts were summoned to fight the fire or provide standby protection for the city.

One of man's earliest and most reliable forms of transportation, the ferry boat, still draws eager customers from the coast of Alaska to the Bosphorus.

Posy Garden Club meets with Mrs. Thrailkill

Thirteen members of the Posy Garden Club and three guests met with Mrs. Harry Thrailkill in Lakewood Hills, for a noon luncheon Wednesday. Tables were set up on a screened-in porch which projected over a myrtle covered hillside. Mrs. Thrailkill feeds the birds the year around and the feeders were visited often by numerous birds.

Mrs. J. M. Herbert had made a large bouquet of hydrangea and day-lilies in an old brown and white stone jar to add to the lovely setting.

Mrs. Bess Seaman showed how to prepare a daylily or hererocallis for specimen showing. She also told how to select and groom other flowers, from the list in the county fair, premium book. Most flowers should be disbudded, have a long, strong stem foliage in good clean, healthy condition and flowers the proper size and color for the variety.

Mrs. Kenneth Campbell read chapters from the Exhibitors and Judges Handbook, regarding traditional and modern flower arranging. Each member then discussed her arrangement for the Fayette County Fair.

Mrs. Jess Schlichter, elected president for the coming year, asked for program suggestions for the next garden club year, which begins in October. She asked the program book committee to meet at her home Aug. 13.

In keeping with the beautiful outdoor view, Mrs. Fern Miller read from the book, "Lame Deer, Seeker of Visions" by John Lane Deer and Richard Forbes. She read from the chapter, "Talking to the owls and butterflies" which told how Indians go slower, listen and see more in nature, and suggestions that everyone should at times, seek a quiet place away from man-made sounds, and let nature into his soul.

Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Easter Woods assisted Mrs. Thrailkill with the luncheon. Guests were Mrs. A. L. Fishback, Mrs. Herbert and Mrs. Darrell DeBolt and members Mrs. Frank Barrett, Mrs. Carl Benner, Mrs. Seaman, Mrs. Jess Schlichter, Mrs. Lester Haines, Mrs. Albert Bihl, Mrs. Lyle Hanawalt, Mrs. Fred Rivenburgh, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Art Schlichter.

The Aug. 21 meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Benner.

Guests for the evening included: Mrs. Jim Wilson, Mrs. Gary McMurray, Mrs. Jim Kirk, Mrs. Victor Pontious, and Mrs. Robert Simpson. New member, Mrs. Michael Flynn was welcomed into the club with the presentation of her pin and yearbook. Prizes went to members with the most original homemade name tags. Winners were: Most original - Betty Hyer; Prettiest - Jane Wintringham; Ugliest - Shirley Willoughby; and Funniest - Mrs. Lehman.

Tail Twister, Mrs. S.E. Vaughn, then surprised the guest lioness for the evening, Mrs. Phil Morrow, with a going away gift from the club.

Winners were: Low - Shirley Willoughby; Low Net - Jane Wintringham, Low Putts - Mrs. Lehman; Longest Putt - Mrs. Ralph Cook; Most 7's - Juanita Lewis, and Most 8's - Mrs. Wiley Witherspoon. Jr. Fairboard role

The Fayette County Junior Fair Board plays a vital role in planning many of the activities at the Fayette County Fair each year. This year's board has been involved in several decisions that effect the Junior Fair program.

One of the major activities undertaken by the board this year was preparing the annual operating budget which includes prizes, payment for judges, ribbons, and other miscellaneous charges. The Junior Fair Board is also responsible for preparing the premium book, determining the junior fair pass policies conducting the annual junior fair queen's contest, selecting junior superintendents who assist with the fair program and planning the evaluation dinner to review the junior fair program and make recommendations for 1975.

The Junior Fair Board members have ten directives that describe the duties they are to perform. They are (1) to study and improve the Junior Fair program, (2) to assume responsibility for the preside at specific Junior Fair activities, (3) to inform the county agricultural society of decisions and recommendations, (4) to complete the Junior Fair section of the county fair premium list, (5) to select junior superintendents for each division of the fair, (6) to prepare the budget for the junior fair activities for Senior Fair Board approval, (7) to establish policies for distribution of passes for Junior Fair participants, (8) to conduct the Junior Fair Queen's contest, (9) to consult with the superintendent of the division for guidance in activities and (10) to assist Senior Fair Board members whenever necessary to issue ribbons and record placings.

Ohio Bell to have booth

Telemobile, Ohio Bell's 1974 Communications show will be at Fayette County Fair Monday through Saturday according to Bruce Galloway, commercial manager for the phone company.

The blue, yellow and white mobile unit will be on the fairgrounds and will be open admission free.

The huge van contains a variety of bright new telephone products offered by Ohio Bell. Featured also are numerous tips that will help the calling public save time and money, as well as help make telephone service easier to use, more convenient and more enjoyable.

In the new products displays there is a working model of a brand new business communications system. Developed especially for small businesses, the system has seven lines with 18 extensions, two intercom lines and conferencing capabilities. Its options include providing music to entertain a caller when the call must be put on hold and a paging system.

Garden show

Fayette County garden clubs flower show entries will be judged at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday. Mrs. Arthur Schlichter is chairman; J.W. Sears, director; Mrs. Willard Bonham, Mrs. George Trimmer, Mrs. Jess Schlichter, Mrs. Richard Rankin and Mrs. Robert Wilson are co-chairmen of the show. Open Class will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, and for the garden clubs on Thursday and Friday.

In the Women's Fine Arts Department for the Fayette County Fair, demonstrations have been planned for each day in the Arts and Crafts Building. J.W. Sears is the director in charge and Mrs. Fern Miller the superintendent. On Monday, the ceramics demonstration, planned for 2 to 4 p.m. by Mrs. Catherine Hines, has been cancelled. Mrs. Hines is hospitalized.

On Tuesday from 2 to 4 p.m. Mrs. Patti Briggs will give a demonstration of how to use a micro wave oven, to be held in the Dayton Power and Light tent.

Wednesday Harry Wilson, of Dayton, will demonstrate pen and ink drawings from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Arts and Crafts Building.

Twilling and decoupage will be demonstrated by Mrs. Ethel Smith and weaving and spinning will be demonstrated by Mrs. Mary Baughn from 2 to 4 p.m.

Mrs. Linda Purcell will demonstrate sewing and materials from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Arts and Crafts Building.

Judging will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday in the Fine Arts Department and at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Home Furnishings and Handicrafts.

House furnishings and Handicrafts superintendent is Mrs. Harold Callendar, with assistants Mrs. Coyt Stookey, Miss Elaine Stookey and Mrs. J.W. Sears.

All foods will be judged at 5 p.m. Mrs. Ray H. Jenks is the superintendent. Assistants are Mrs. Robert Gatewood, Mrs. Darrell Mickle and Miss Debra Jinks.

Mrs. Wayne Arnold is a Fayette County contestant for the Mrs. Ohio State Fair Homemaker of the Year Award. Mrs. Glenn McCoy was one of the 10 finalists in 1973.

Indian artifact exhibition

Some 300 Camp Fire Girls will exhibit their handicrafts in a special Fair booth at the Youth building.

The projects yield a colorful display which can be seen throughout fair week. The junior high group, the Discovery Club, under the direction of Mrs. Gerald Wheat, is in charge of decorating.

Entries from the youngest Camp Fire Girls through the senior groups will be displayed. The younger groups, Bluebirds and Adventurers Club will enter small crafts, usually made at their monthly meetings under the direction of their adult leaders.

The Discovery Club will enter more complex exhibits, most of which are Indian-type jackets and trinkets, including headbands. The senior group, the Horizon Club, will enter ceremonial gowns.

The general theme for Camp Fire Girls is Indian lore since the club's origin grew out of an interest in America's Indian heritage.

The awards for the Camp Fire exhibits are distinct from those of the Junior Fair competition.

1974 livestock champs,
auction sale review

The 1973 auction sale of beef, hogs and lamb brought prices unequalled in the history of the Fayette County Fair. Meat prices were naturally high, but outstanding support from area businesses and individuals had to play a major role in the success of the sale.

Lamb approached the price of gold when Bill Sexten's champion market animal was sold to the Dr. Heinz Feed Co. for $7 per pound.

The reserve market lamb brought $4.50 per pound from Hidy's Supermarket and a lot of happiness to Rick Whaley, who made the sale.

As the supply increases, so the price decreases. Mike Coe received "only" 93 cents per pound for his champion pen of three market lambs. This time it was Landmark, London Truck and Tractor and the Washington Crop Service who entered the final bid.

Lamb entries down from '73

Entries in the open class sheep are slightly below last year with just less than 200 sheep, representing 21 breeders.

At least two breeders have entered each of the seven recognized categories including two Corriedales, five Dorsets, three Hampshires, two Montadales, two Shropshires, two Southdowns and five Suffolks.

Judging will be at 8:30 a.m. Friday and all sheep must be in place by 6 p.m. Monday. All exhibitors are asked to wear white coats or shirts while showing sheep in the ring. Clarence Williamson, of Xenia, will be the judge.

Lambs entered in the carcass contest will be shown at 6 p.m. Monday. There are 45 entries, and Ron Gunther, of Ohio State University will judge the on foot competition, ranking the top 15 and cutting them out.

The animals will be transported to the Village Packing Co., Columbus, where judges from Ohio State University will determine the cut out carcass results.

The champion carcass will be sold during the Junior Fair market lamb sale at 6 p.m. Thursday.

Last year's winner was Jay Johnson. The champion carcass had a score of 94 points in a scoring system taking into account its cutability, loin eye area and judges' opinion.

The carcass which weighed 50 pounds was purchased at $2.85 per pound by Ensen's Market.

World's fastest roller coaster

The world's fastest gravity roller coaster was the Bobs in the Belle Vue Amusement Park, Manchester, Lancashire, England. The cars attained a peak speed of 61 m.p.h. The track was 862 yards long and the maximum height 76 feet. It was sent over from the U.S. in 1929 and has reportedly now been returned.

Sexten then worked his magic once again by attracting 95 cents on the pound from Chakares Drive-In for his reserve pen of three.

In all, 250 lambs were sold at an average price of nearly 69 cents per pound.

HAM wasn't quite as expensive, but Chris Wright didn't complain too loudly when his champion hog sold at $3.10 per pound. Colonial State and Woodworking Co. took home the champion bacon.

Coe did much better dealing hogs than he had in the lamb business. He received $2.15 per pound from the Washington Lumber Co. for his reserve champion.

Steve Coe garnered $1.50 a pound from Heinhold Hog Market and Virgil Bently, Moorman Feed for his champion pair, but again the reserves beat the varsity when Tammy Walters received $1.52.5 per pound for her reserve champion pair. It was purchased by Marting Manufacturing.

Final hog sale averages showed 271 head sold at an average of 74 cents a pound.

To the great disappointment of Scott Jenks, T-bones and assorted other cuts were only bid to $1.50 a pound, still 15 cents higher than ever before in Fayette County. His 1,200-pound champion steer brought him a net of $1,800 and they think they have holy cows in India!! Jeffersonville Royal Blue and the Fayette County Bank made the purchase.

Belinda Melton's reserve champion steer was purchased by Sohigro at $1.25 per pound, and the average for 77 steers was 72 cents a pound.

Next week will determine whether or not these record prices of 1973 will crash and be forgotten or remain standing for another year.

Cornhusk dolls just one of many handcraft items

Just off Snowhill Road there is a little doll shop which only a few months ago Robert Pero foolishly believed to be his very own farm.

Actually, Pero is used to the versatility of his home. Each year around Fair time, his daughters begin their projects for 4-H competition, which in his case virtually means housing a miniature fair.

Daughters Susan, 15, and Dedee and Kitty, 11-year-old twins, will be entering a variety of fair exhibits, including dairy cows, sewing projects and cooking as well as dolls, which are singularly Susan's endeavor.

Having entered a number of projects last year, including some hand-made puppets, Susan set out to find something a little out of the ordinary this year. While leafing through a number of hobbycraft books at a local store, a book entitled "How to Make Cornhusk Dolls" caught her attention and led to her unusual exhibits in the 1974 Fayette County Fair.

She explained that the dolls are not too difficult to make, and one can be completed in as little as half an hour. They are not only fun to make, but also provide the creator with attractive household decorations.

After soaking in water some three minutes, cornhusks are wrapped around a length of heavy bailing wire. The outside roll of the husk is held in place by wrapping short pieces of wire on the ends. These are then shaped to form the body of the doll.

Skirts, shirts, trousers and accessories are then placed on the doll and pinned in place. When the husk is dry (about an hour) it becomes fairly rigid and the pins can be removed.

Hair can be made from a variety of materials. The three dolls displayed for this reporter were adorned with flax, cornsilk and gold thread. The flax closely resembled fine grayish-silver hair, the cornsilk provided a semi-Afro look, and the thread, long golden locks.

Although she hadn't tried doing any coloring as yet, Miss Pero said that the husk can be dyed to brighten the effect. Doll clothing, boughten or homemade, can be added.

A member of the Staunton Stitch and Stir 4-H Club, Miss Pero will be a sophomore at Miami Trace this fall. She has been active in the 4-H for a number of years.

Although she didn't know how many entrants there would be in the home furnishings and handcrafts category, at least 10 members of the Staunton club will be entering.

Some of the many items which can be entered this year include quilts, afghans, throw pillows, rugs and ceramic figurines. Other categories are knitting, crochet, needlepoint, embroidery, sewing, weaving and decoupage.

All exhibits in this group must be taken to the Fairgrounds between 1 and 5 p.m. Saturday and must remain on display through Saturday, July 27.

There are nearly 100 separate divisions in the home furnishing and handcraft category, and the entries should make it one of the most colorful and interesting exhibits at the fair.

Prizes in each division will be awarded to the top three entries, with division winners receiving from $1 to $2.50 for a first place exhibit.

CORN AFTER THE COB — Susan Pero aptly demonstrates that there is a lot left of an ear of corn after the cob. She uses the most frequently discarded parts of an ear of corn, the husk and the cornsilk, to make the attractive cornhusk dolls shown above.

Swisher saves Cubs, Reds' skein broken

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds were introduced to Steve Swisher Thursday night.

Swisher is a 22-year-old catcher for the Chicago Cubs. He is also the man who saved a 3-2 Cubs victory over the Reds.

The Reds, trailing by a run, got a ninth inning lead-off single from Cesar Geronimo. Geronimo was given the steal sign. He ran. Swisher threw him out.

A single by Pete Rose and double by Johnny Bench that followed were wasted.

"If the Reds didn't know who Steve Swisher was, they know now," said Cubs Manager Whitey Lockman.

Swisher, drafted in June, 1973, as a first-round pick by the American League White Sox, was one of four players given the Cubs in exchange for Ron Santo.

The Cubs refused to make the deal unless Swisher was included.

Bill Bonham, 9-11, earned the victory and scored the winning run. He led off with a double in the fifth. It was his first extra-base hit in the big leagues.

Rick Monday's double off loser Fred Norman, 9-9, scored Bonham to break a 2-2 tie.

The Cubs wiped out a 1-0 Cincinnati lead during the second inning on Jose Cardenal's eighth homer of the year, a triple by Bill Madlock and Billy Grabarkewitz's sacrifice fly.

"I defeated myself," said Norman. "I'm not a power pitcher, but I tried to pitch like one. That's what beat me."

"We lost because we couldn't get a big hit," said Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson, nothing Cincinnati left 12 men on base.

Oscar Zamora, a 29-year-old rookie, earned his sixth save of the year. He came on in the seventh and fanned Pete Rose with two men on base, then retired Johnny Bench on a fly ball after giving up a walk to load the bases.

The Reds went into the game with nine victories in their last 11 tries, cutting five games off Los Angeles' lead in the National League West.

At this time last year Cincinnati trailed the Dodgers by seven and one-half games. They began closing the gap July 18, 1973, when they entered a six-game winning streak. That turned the tide as the Reds moved in on the division leaders.

The Reds will send Jack Billingham, 9-7, against the Cubs' Dave LaRoche, 1-2, tonight.

By LARRY WATTS
Record-Herald Sports Editor
Beginning Monday evening at 7:30, three big nights of racing await area harness racing enthusiasts at the 1974 Fayette County Fair.

Since the number of races has been cut to three, compared to four racing nights last year, the quality of horses entered promises to be much better. Full fields have been entered in each race. In the case of 12 or more entries in any race, the race will be divided into two heats and each heat will be run as an individual race.

Just about all of the horses entered this year will be colts. Additions to this year's program include races for two year-old fillies and three year-old fillies.

Monday's racing program will start with an overnight pace for two year-old fillies. The second race of the evening will be the Ohio Colt Racing Association Stakes for three year-old trotters. Also on tap for Monday's racing card will be non-winners races overnight trotters and overnight pacers.

Tuesday's schedule finds stake races for two-year old trotters and pacers. There will also be two dashes for overnight pacers.

The Adios Butler Filly Pace tops Wednesday's program. There will also be a OCRA Stakes race for three year-old pacers and non-winners dashes for overnight pacers.

One of the highlights of this year's racing at the Fayette County Fair will be the announcing of Roger Huston. Huston is a grand circuit announcer and he is known throughout the United States racing associations.

There will be pari-mutuel betting each night. Monday evening, grandstand attendance is free to the public. Should the free grandstand be successful on Monday, it will be considered for every racing night next year.

Fair Board members Ed. Kirk, Harry Thrailkill and Dr. D.R. Junk will make up the speed committee. Max Lawrence is the presiding judge and John Sagar will be handling the starting gate.

Best Friend club eyes dog show

At 7 p.m., Thursday, July 25, the dog care and obedience competition of the Fayette County Junior Fair will take place in the Dayton Power and Light tent at the Fayette County fairgrounds.

The Best Friend 4-H Club is in its sixth year of training and grooming dogs for the event. Sarah Brown and Beverly Harper are advisors to the club and have assisted the young people in getting their dogs ready for the show.

An interesting collection, consisting of all breeds, from all walks of four-legged life, will be entered. Examples are Beverly Harper's "Keeshond" which is an average-sized, very long-haired dog from Holland and Lu Brown's Labrador Retriever, "Heidi," which will become a pilot dog for the blind after the Fair by furthering her training in Columbus.

Fifteen to 20 dogs are expected to be entered in the show, composed of seven classes; (1) grooming and care, junior, (2) grooming and care, senior, (3) beginners, (4) novice, (5) graduated novice, (6) open, and (7) utility.

Winners in the dog show competition in these classes at the Junior Fair last year were Gary Cobb, Laurie Lish, Kevin Persinger, Lu Brown, Jeff Long, Jim Chakeres and Jeff Harper. Many of them will be returning this year to assist their dogs' in the defense of their championships.

"ALL THE BETTER TO SEE YOU WITH!" — Nancy Alkire's dog, "Princess," gets a quick health inspection from veterinarian James A. McCoy (far right) and his son, David. Many of the dogs participating in the Fayette County fair dog show had physicals Friday evening at the fair.

Concern About Aspirin

We are constantly warned that aspirin can cause ulcers and bleeding in the stomach. Although I don't have such a problem I worry because I take a considerable amount of aspirin for my arthritis. Does this mean that I am heading for trouble?

Mrs. G. S., Minn.

Dear Mrs. S.: Many readers have expressed concern about this problem. Aspirin is probably one of the most frequently used drugs for the relief of pain. But there are side effects from aspirin that must be considered for any long-term use.

One of the most frequent problems is that it increases bleeding tendencies because it interferes with the clotting mechanism of the blood.

It is also thought that it may be responsible for ulcers of the stomach and the small intestines, especially in those people who have a tendency towards these conditions.

In the light of this knowledge, an exhaustive study was reported in the New England Journal of Medicine. Dr. Misha Levy, at the Boston University Medical Center, studied 25,000 patients who were admitted to Boston hospitals in an effort to clarify this problem.

The conclusion: "Patients with a known history of stomach or intestinal ulcer should, as a precautionary measure, not take aspirin or aspirin-containing products."

On the other hand, the report states, in the absence of an ulcer history, there is no need to completely eliminate the use of aspirin from "a patient who desperately requires the relief provided by this excellent analgesic (pain reliever)."

In the light of these findings, you should not stop taking aspirin because of your fear that you are "heading for trouble."

You can be certain that your physician is completely aware of the side effects of this remarkable drug and would not suggest that you continue its use if there was a danger to your health.

All drugs carry the possibility of some side effects. The value of a drug is always measured against its potential disadvantages.

Before anyone embarks on a long-term concentrated use of aspirin, or aspirin-containing products, discussion with one's doctor about its use is essential.

Drills, studded with hundreds of coarse diamonds are preferred for boring oil wells, because the bits do not have to be drawn up thousands of feet for frequent replacement.

BOSTON (AP) — A good William C. Yoels, a Boston college lecturer had better publish his thoughts if he hopes to get ahead in the academic world, a sociologist and their promotions.

He found that less than 4 per cent of the faculty in the nation's top 20 college departments of sociology got promoted without having published books and articles to buttress their teaching reputations.

Jeff cyclist hurt in mishap

A Jeffersonville motorcyclist was injured when struck by a car Thursday, Washington C. H. police officers reported. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department investigated an accident involving three vehicles on U.S. 35 Thursday.

A car driven by Nellie Maud Robinson, 63, of Jeffersonville, pulled out of Hidy Foods parking lot, onto Columbus Ave. and collided with a motorcycle driven by David A. Douglas, 18, of Jeffersonville, at 12:34 p.m. Thursday.

Douglas was injured in the mishap and was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital by Kirkpatrick ambulance service, where he was referred to a physician for treatment of abrasions of the right knee, wrist, left forearm and nose.

Ms. Robinson was charged by city police with failure to yield right of way.

An accident involving a semi tractor cab driven by Donald L. Springer, 34, Mifflintown, Pa., and a car driven by John R. Winttingham, 47, Staunton-Jasper Road, occurred at 5:05 p.m. Thursday, Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported.

The Winttingham auto pulled to the left to go around an unidentified vehicle engaged in a right turn into a private driveway off U.S. 35, four-tenths of a mile east of I-71. After successfully passing the vehicle, Winttingham was surprised by the Springer semi turning left and they collided.

The Winttingham auto and the mobile home Springer was pulling, owned by Morgan Drive-Away Inc., Harrisburg, Pa., were moderately damaged.

Sheriff's deputies at the scene reported no injuries. No citations were issued.

Oil company faces fine for leakage

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Gulf Oil Corp. could be fined $5,000 as a result of a storage tank leak that allowed about 50,000 gallons of gasoline to escape into the Cuyahoga River, the Coast Guard said Thursday.

But a company spokesman said Gulf had not been informed of any fine.

Cleanup operations are costing Gulf quite a bit, however, the spokesman added.

Much of the gasoline has evaporated, while some has been suctioned off by pollution control boats, the Coast Guard said.

Coast Guard Lt. Klaus Adie said that under federal antipollution statutes the company is liable for the fine as well as costs of the cleanup.

About 160,000 gallons of the fuel leaked into the ground Monday from the storage tank, and part of it ran into the river.

The company says some seepage still is occurring. Booms are being used to contain the slick.

The river has been reopened to marine traffic.

New jetport not wanted

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Portage County commissioners have told the Lake Erie Regional Transportation Authority they don't want a jetport in their county.

The transportation authority said last week the Ravenna Ordinance plant had been picked as a prime site for a jetport if an inland location were selected.

The federal government put a damper on the proposal by saying it won't release the land for a jetport.

Now, the county commissioners have made it clear they don't want any other undeveloped land in the county used for a jetport.

County Commissioner John Carson said Thursday a jetport would place additional financial burden on the county. He said additional funds would be needed for water, sewage and police protection but he fears the jetport would be tax exempt, cutting down on revenues.

Canton barbers increase prices

Queen selection Sunday

Three finalists have been selected for the 1974 Junior Fair Queen competition. The crowning will kick off the week of gala activities known as the 1974 Fayette County Fair.

Shortly after 4 p.m. Sunday, one of the three young ladies pictured will become this year's queen. They were selected on personality, appearance and community involvement from nine entrants.

Judges Jim Williams, 4-H agent from Madison County, and Mrs. Becky Long, home economics coordinator from Highland County narrowed the field to three, Teresa Jordan, Lenora Slavens and Debra Frazier. The winner will be selected from ballots cast by junior fair exhibitors.

To have been eligible entrants must be 16 years of age or older and be a member of one of the junior organization's connected with the Fair. These clubs include the 4-H, Future Farmers, Future Homemakers, Junior Achievement, Boy Scouts (not a misprint, the Boy Scouts are improving each year), Girl Scouts, or Camp Fire Girls.

CROWNING will take place after a few welcoming remarks from Gary Taylor president of the Junior Fairboard and the introduction of four local county queens, Cindy Davis, pork queen; Betsy Hartman, lamb queen; Jane Kiger, horse queen; and Marlene Braun, queen of beef. Past Junior Fairboard presidents will also be recognized.

One of the three finalists will succeed the 1973 Junior Fair Queen, Nelta Baker, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Baker, of Jeffersonville. The runners-up will succeed the 1973 queen's court of Jodi Whittington, 19, of Washington C. H., and Lynne Rapp, 18, of New Holland.

TERESA KAY JORDAN, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Bogard, New Holland, will be a senior at Miami Trace High School this fall and has been active in a variety of school and community activities including school choir, Future Homemakers, 4-H, Junior Fairboard, Future Farmers and six years in the YWCA. She has been a lifeguard, a sophomore attendant a member of the yearbook staff and has been active in her church youth group.

LENORA ELAINE SLAVEN, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slaven Jr., 1291 Dayton Ave., is a 1974 graduate of Washington Senior High School. She has been involved with Y-Teens, the American Field Service, Future Nurses and the Medical Explorers Club. She has been on the school drill team for two years, a member of the 4-H for nine years, a member of the school band, a news reporter and has been active in athletics.

DEBRA ANN FRAZIER, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frazier, New Holland, is a recent graduate of Miami Trace High School. Over the past years, she has been in the Future Homemakers, the Aviation Club, the National Honor Society and the American Field Service. She has also participated in 4-H, Camp Fire Girls, and was secretary of her graduating class.

Pop guzzlers

The people of the U.S. undoubtedly consume more carbonated soft drinks than any other people — 30.3 gallons per person in 1972, up from 16.8 gallons in 1962. Coffee consumption in the U.S. in the same period dropped from 39.2 gallons to 35.6 gallons per person in 1972, but tea increased from 6.1 to 7.2 gallons. Cold juices (not included in the soft drink totals) reached 5 gallons per person in 1972.

Food events to cover three days

Entrants in the 4-H nutrition competition will be judged Tuesday through Thursday in the Youth Exhibits Building on the Fairground.

Members are judged only by a professional home economist, Mrs. John Bay but are also evaluated by the other members in their group having the same food projects. Since "outstanding of the day" winners are announced at the end of each day, members can see what is required for a top project.

Advisors and junior leaders serve on the 4-H Nutrition Committee which sets guidelines for projects, and conducts training meetings such as the nutrition clinic held June 20. During Fair Week this committee is responsible for judging, registration and scoring.

Members this year include Julie Blake, Junior Fair Board member in charge; Dee Dee Lange, Mary Ann Wilson, Melissa Mark and Carol Rex,

After serving in the Army and a winning performance on "Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts," he returned to Cincinnati and joined WLW as a disc jockey. He later became emcee of WLW's Bandstand and host of the Good Morning Show on WLW radio.

While serving as host of Bandstand and the Good Morning Show, Braun appeared regularly on the 50-50 Club, which was hosted by Ruth Lyons. When Miss Lyons retired in 1967, Bob became host of the 90-minute variety program, which appears on WLWT (Cincinnati), WLWC (Columbus), WLWD (Dayton), WLWI (Indianapolis) and WLW radio.

In addition to his work as host of the 50-50 Club, Bob also hosts On The Money, a game show produced by Avco Broadcasting in association with Ron Greenberg Productions, of New York.

Braun heads the annual Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund, a project which provides hospitalized children with toys, books, radios, television sets, playroom and therapeutic equipment in nearly 100 hospitals in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky each year. Since the beginning of the Fund, over $6.5 million has been raised.

Bob travels hundreds of miles each year visiting hospitals and making personal appearances on behalf of the Fund. In praise of Braun's leadership in the Ruth Lyons Christmas Fund drive, a special tribute has been read into the Congressional Record on two occasions. His work was also recognized by a 1972 award from the Ohio Association for Retarded Children.

Because of his outstanding service to the community, state and Midwest, Bob has received several distinguished awards. He was selected as an Honorary Governor of Ohio by Governor James Rhodes; appointed a Kentucky Admiral; named a Chieftan on the staff of the Governor of Indiana; Council of Sagamores of the Wabash by Indian Governor Edgar Whitcomb; honored for meritorious service by the U.S. Marine Corps; and appointed a Commodore in the Ohio Navy.

Bob is married to Wray Jean Wilkinson, a former model; and they have three children, Robbie, Doug and Melissa.

Church group sponsors Fair anti-smoking booth

Smokers who want to kick the habit will have their chance to come to the Five-Day Plan booth at the Fayette County Fair Mahan Building for information and registration forms.

The plan will be conducted by the Kettering Medical Center doctor-clergymen team and consists of regular evening group therapy sessions, films, and a daily personal control program for home or work.

Conducting the program locally will be Dr. C. W. Trott, M.D., professor at Kettering Medical Arts College and Richard Trott, pastor of Grove City and Washington C. H. Seventh-day Adventist Churches. Group therapy sessions will be held from 7 p.m. each evening beginning July 29 in the Anderson's Restaurant Banquet Room.

Sponsored by the local Seventh-day Adventist Church as a community service, the five-Day Plan aims to help improve the health of the community and to contribute to the national physical-fitness program, Trott explained.

Already held successfully in cities all across the United States and Canada, the "Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking" features such topics as the psychological and physical aspects of the habit, how craving can be lessened, how willpower can be strengthened, physical effects of smoking, organization of a buddy system and many other techniques designed to break the habit within a five-day period.

The public many also register the first evening of the therapy session. There is a $5 registration fee.

Bar-J-Wranglers prepare for Fair competition

By GEORGE MALEK
"Normally we meet once every two weeks, but for the past few weeks we've been holding training sessions nearly every day."
So said Albert Ingram, 4-H advisor of the Bar-J-Wranglers Club. He explained that things get pretty hectic just prior to the Fair.
A veteran of 11 years in 4-H work, Ingram is used to the last minute rush to cram down, in a few days, everything there is to know about horses. He complains, just the smallest amount, that the kids in the group have let up from time to time and now want to learn everything at once.

Watching him work with the youngsters, however, one is quite confident that he is enjoying it every bit as much, if not more, than the club members.
Fifteen children, ranging in age from nine to 18, meet twice a month, almost year-round, to learn about and to enjoy their horses. Each child owns and cares for his own animal, with some assistance from parents for the younger members.
Preparation is nearing an end. The daily exercises, both at the halter and in the saddle, are coming to an end. Beginning at 9 a.m. Wednesday, the many hours of laborous practice will be transformed into the excitement of Junior Fair competition.

After a few short hours on the Fairgrounds infield, it will be either time to rejoice and relax, or to dedicate one's self to a better showing next year.
For Ingram's three children, it will be difficult to have a much better showing this year than last. Carolyn Ingram, 18, and Joyce, 16, were two of the seven 1973 winners in the horsemanship competition. Joyce also captured showmanship honors as did her brother Jeff, 13.
The Bar-J-Wranglers are not solely dedicated to work, however. Once each year, usually around the Fourth of July, members of the club take a multi-day trail ride. This year the group spent four days on the trail, riding some 100 miles in all.

One of the days, he said, the group spent seven consecutive hours in the saddle, but no one complained of a blistered bottom. "They don't want to have that problem during the trip," he explained, "so they spend quite a bit of time preparing themselves for the ordeal."
None of the club members looked any the worse for wear, and as far as is known, no one has refused to go next year. "They came back dead tired," one parent said, "but they collapsed with a smile." "It's good for the horses, too," he explained, "they look a lot trimmer than they did a month ago."

No doubt they'll be back for their regular meeting whether or not they win at the Fair, but all are hoping that they can just remember all that Ingram has tried to impress upon them.

The remaining 1973 champions, Bill Miller, Karen Kiger and Rhonda Medary in horsemanship; and Tammy Arnold, Beth Jenks and Marisa Stuckey, in showmanship; beware. This group is definitely out to unseat you.
Jane Kiger and Mark Williams, be doubly careful. As winners in both categories last year, you have twice as much to defend.

INDIVIDUALIZED INSTRUCTION — Young horsewoman Angie Huffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Huffman, New Holland, received some special instructions from 4-H advisor Albert Ingram, Ohio 41-N, in preparation for the horse showmanship competition at the Junior Fair. She is one of 15 youngsters in Ingram's Bar-J-Wranglers Club who will be competing in the horsemanship and showmanship events.

Safety of rides depends on riders

The first of Ohio's 95 county and independent fairs began to swing July 15 with the opening of the Franklin County Fair in Hilliard. Last year more than 7.8 million people visited these fairs and the great Ohio State Fair. Officials are expecting more than 8 million in 1974, as more persons are spending their vacations near home.
For many of these fairgoers the midway's music, lights and gyrating amusement rides will be the main attraction. The inventive and thrilling rides move in all directions, giving passengers about one and a half minutes of sheer ecstasy and delight. Many of the thrill rides are designed to excite the adventurous by creating an illusion of great speed or impending collision with other riders.

Gene R. Abercrombie, Director of the Ohio Department of Agriculture, reminds fairgoers that these rides are engineered and manufactured under rigid controls. "They may scare you half to death," he said, "and yet they hold you in complete safety."
Safety is the primary reason for the Agriculture Department's Fairs and Amusements section and its licensing and inspection programs of traveling, portable amusement rides.
Steve Eldred, director of that section said, "We cannot guarantee safety, but we do our best to assure compliance with basic recommended maintenance and safety equipment requirements."

Abercrombie and Eldred agree that no amount of inspection or maintenance by the state, the insurance companies or the ride owners themselves can protect the person who abuses or ignores the safety devices provided on the ride. Seat belts and shoulder straps should be fastened at all times and latches should be secured while the ride is in motion. Nothing should be tampered with or misused by the riders.
Director Abercrombie stressed other safety precautions that individual riders should take: wear shoes or other foot protection at all times, long hair should be tied to eliminate the possibility of catching in a moving machine part, small children should always be placed on the inside of a fast moving ride where centrifugal force will move everyone to the outside of the seat.
"By all means, seats should not be rocked, nor should riders attempt to stand up in a ride which has been designed to carry everyone in a sitting position," he said.
"By heeding these words of caution," Abercrombie concluded, "even the smallest accident can be avoided."

Thrill show set

COLUMBUS — The Dan Fleenor Auto Thrill Show will appear at the 1974 Ohio State Fair for two performances on Friday, Aug. 30, at 1:30 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. at the Grandstand.
Appearing with Fleenor will be a world famous team of precision drivers and crash champions. The two-hour thrill shows include high speed chases and bone-jarring crashes.
Specialty acts include the motorcycle "Leap of Death" over a row of parked cars, the "Slide for Life" where a daredevil drops from the rear of a speeding car, and, of course, the most famous stunt of all, the ramp-to-ramp leap, 60 feet through space, with a new car.

'Pitching-in'

The Washington Senior High School "Class of '76" has adopted the "Spirit of '76" and will pitch in to clean up America during the Ohio State Fair. The "pitch in" is used "literally" because the sophomore class will spend four hours in Columbus cleaning trash from the fairgrounds.

In cooperation with a statewide campaign, the class (or at least 50 members of it) have selected a four-hour period during which they will walk the grounds, picking up litter as they go.

Numerous schools throughout the state will select other shifts, and fair officials hope to have a continuous crew for the duration of the fair.

The only compensation the students will receive for their efforts is that they will be presented with "Pitch-In" tee-shirts supplied by the fair board . . . in addition to their personal satisfaction.

The group will leave in private cars to arrive in Columbus to work from noon to 4 p.m. Fair officials have not yet verified the date requested by the group, but a specific date is expected shortly. The participants will receive Pitch-In buttons which will admit them into the fair without charge.

Home furnishing competition

A 14-year-old member of the Madison Mills Merry Maidens 4-H Club is one of three entrants in the home furnishings competition for the Fayette County Fair.

Cheryl Blue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Marcy, 1075 Cook-Yankeetown Rd., has been refinishing the front porch of her home for three weeks. "The hardest part of the task was removing the old varnish," she pointed out. That part alone, she said, took well over 24 hours.

Judge to have one-man show

DAN WILSON

The judge of the fine arts competition, Dan Wilson of St. Paris, will have a one-man display of drawings at the Fayette Center Gallery beginning July 31. They will be displayed for one month.

A native of West Virginia, Wilson is a 1969 graduate of Marshall University and received his Master of Arts degree from Wright State University in 1974.

He taught for five years in Xenia before joining the faculty of Troy High School where he teaches art.

The judging of the fine arts exhibits at the Fair will be held at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, July 21, and all entries must be delivered to the Fairgrounds between 1 and 4 p.m. Saturday. Entry tags must be attached.

After she had done as much as possible with an electric sander, Miss Blue sanded along the paneling and in other hard-to-reach areas by hand. After the entire area was fully sanded, she applied the first of two coats of varnish.

Judges visited her home Monday, July 15, to evaluate the project and compare it to the projects of other students in the home furnishings division, but the results will not be officially released until the Fair.

Miss Blue, a sophomore at Miami Trace and a six-year member of the 4-H club in Madison Mills, is also entering exhibits in the clothing complements division for the first time. In the past, she has entered projects in flower gardening and sewing.

Ferris Wheel dates to 1893

The original Ferris Wheel, named after its constructor, George W. Ferris (1859-96), was erected in 1893 at the Midway, Chicago, at a cost of $300,000. The wheel was 250 feet in diameter, 790 feet in circumference, weighed 1,070 tons, and carried 36 cars each seating 40 people, making a total of 1,440 passengers. The structure was removed in 1904 to St. Louis, and was eventually sold as scrap for $1,800. In 1897, a Ferris Wheel was a diameter of 300 feet was erected for the Earls Court Exhibition, London. The largest wheel now operating is the Riesenrad in Prater Park, Vienna, Austria, with a diameter of 197 feet. It was built in 1896 and carried 15,000,000 people in its first 75 years.

Rabbits and small animals to be judged

Ten year-old Todd Breitigan, who is a first-year member of the Fur and Feather 4-H Club, decided to raise rabbits as his first project for the Fayette County Fair. Young Breitigan who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Breitigan, 3275 Worthington Rd., will be among 20 entries in the rabbit competition in the 1974 fair.

"I did not want my first project to be big, so I decided to raise rabbits," commented Breitigan. "Next year I'll go to a bigger animal, such as sheep."

"Any type of rabbits can be entered, since the classes are determined by age," he continued. "In order to score high in the judging, you try to get the ears and tail to stand up and keep the front feet together."

Breitigan said that judges look for such things as broken tails, scabs in the ears, long teeth, shedding hair and overgrown toenails.

Judging begins at 6:30 p.m. Monday. Three different divisions of rabbits are scheduled. The first is for all does and bucks; the second is for a junior or senior doe or buck; the third includes senior doe or buck, junior doe or buck, a pen or three market rabbits.

Age definitions are as follows: Junior—three to six months; Intermediate—six to eight months; and Senior—eight months of age. The pen of three market rabbits must weigh four to five pounds and be less than 69 days old.

LAST YEAR, Joe Roush showed the best senior rabbit and was judged to have the best third-year project. Randy Sanderson had the best second-year project and Chantel Newton the best first-year project. Julie Marie Campbell showed the top intermediate rabbit. Jeanne Maddux of Frankfort will again judge the rabbit competition.

Poultry judging begins at 8:30 a.m., Wednesday. The order of judging will be standard breeds, bantam breeds, ducks, geese, pigeons and pen of three market chickens. There are presently 27 projects entered in this year's fair and Rocky Miller of Sabina will be the judge.

Judging for other small animals will begin at 3 p.m., Wednesday. The classifications are hamsters, guinea pigs, cats and pocket pets.

FIRST FAIR PROJECT — Todd Breitigan, a first-year member of the Fur and Feather 4-H Club, checks over one of his rabbit entries for the 1974 Fayette County Fair. The 10 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Breitigan has raised the rabbits as his first project in county fair competition.

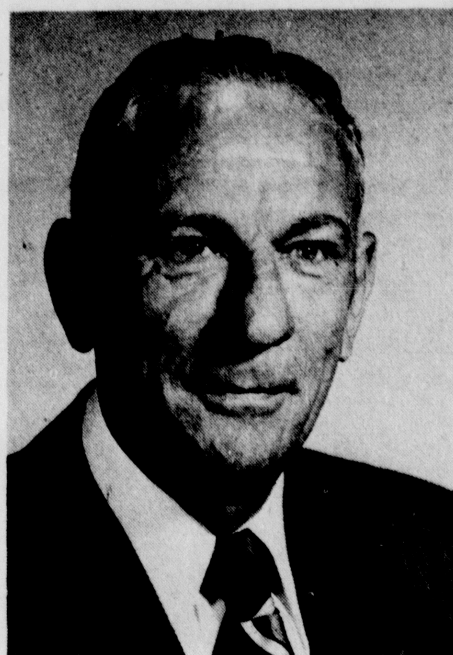

Board's big week here

According to George Finley, secretary of the Fayette County Agricultural Society, the primary function of the Fayette County Senior Fair Board is preparing for and running the Fayette County Fair.

Among the duties of the fair board is the operation of the Mahan Building for community activities during the year and the rental of several of the other buildings on the fairgrounds, such as the horse barns. All of the operations are conducted under the rules and regulations set up by the Ohio Department of Agriculture.

From the Fayette County Senior Fair Board, 13 members are elected to the board of directors. Each director is responsible for certain committees associated with the fair.

Election of new directors is held on Friday during the week of the Fayette County Fair. Each director serves a three-year term and there are at least four openings on the board of directors each year. To become eligible, a candidate must file a petition containing the signatures of 10 members of the society. The board of directors hold monthly meetings and attend an annual meeting on the first Monday of October each year.

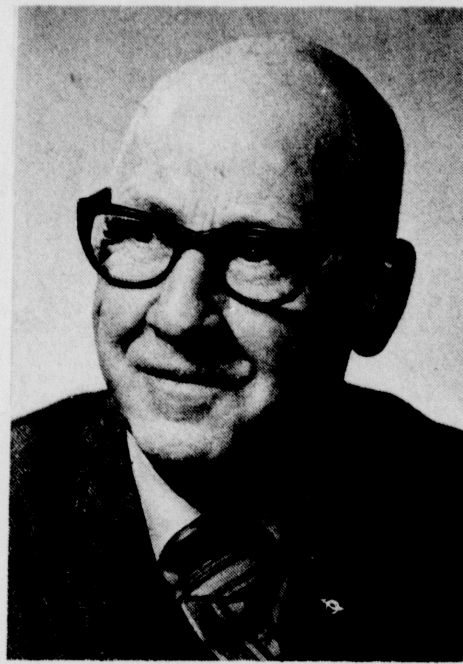

The membership of the Senior Fair Board runs nearly 100 each year. Anyone in the county, 21 years or older, is eligible to buy a membership.
